A MUST SEE ART EXHIBITION WORTHY OF SALMAGUNDI'S TRADITION OF EXCELLENCE IN ITS 151 YEAR.

SALMAGUNDI

"There is a renaissance at Salmagundi.....a new spirit tangible on entering the old club. Perhaps it is the spirit of Joseph Hartley, eminent sculptor and Salmagundi founding father, whose legacy will be honored in March with a unique first annual invitational which promises to be the finest display of representational modern art in any New York gallery."
Nicholas Dawes, Chairman

HARTLEY INVITATIONAL

Reception March 10, 6-8 pm

Salmagundi presents our first ever Hartley Invitational exhibition and sale. Unique to the Hartley Invitational, this exhibition will showcase an exclusive group of representational artists who have been carefully selected and invited by Salmagundi. Come view their works in one of the last remaining New York City galleries to be exhibiting and selling representational art.

"I am honored and delighted that so many eminent contemporary realists are participating in the first annual Hartley invitational. These artists and the work they have contributed are realizing our goal for the Hartley to become the state of the art exhibition for realism in our time." Jacob Collins, President

I am thrilled to have become a patron member of the Salmagundi Club, and now, it's newly appointed Exhibition Manager. This Greenwich Village mainstay is one of a small cadre of New York City galleries maintaining a focus on representational art, as well as one of my personal favorite art destinations. The Club has continuously championed representational art from its founding, with iconic members, including: Thomas Moran (1837-1926), William Merritt Chase (1849-1916), Louis Comfort Tiffany (1848-1933), Emil Carlsen (1848-1932), N.C. Wyeth (1882-1945), Childe Hassam (1859-1935) and Winston Churchill (1874-1965), as well as, more recently Jacob Collins, Max Ginsburg, Richard Schmid, Daniel E. Greene, Patricia Watwood, David A. Leffel and many more.

Now, with Jacob Collins, a highly respected artist himself, as President, Salmagundi, a not-for-profit 501(c)(3), professional and social club created in 1871 by artists and patrons to support one another, is returning to its roots by representing professional artists. With an eye toward the future, the Club also encourages young representational artists to apply for our junior memberships and scholarships, and to begin showing in exhibitions.

This season, in addition to continuing the program of The Villa America, I look forward to welcoming you to the Club at our Hartley Invitational exhibition reception on March 10, 6-8 – as well as upcoming art receptions, wine tastings, art classes, poetry readings, talks and drink and draw– and I invite you to make an appointment with me to visit, collect (it's a wonderful opportunity), become a member, join this great cultural community, and enjoy the dining room, bar and the oldest Pool tables in New York City.
